WHITEHALL — The annual Spring Workshop of the northern section of the Eastern Zone of the New York State Teachers Association, was conducted recently at the junior-senior high school of the Whitehall Central School with 75 representatives from schools in Hamilton, Saratoga, Warren and Washington counties attending.

Following a tour of the building, conducted by the Student Council of the school, the members heard a summary of the recent legislative program of the State Association and the accomplishments of the Association for its members for the past five years, by Legislative Chairman C. Austin Dawson of Granville. Goold, executive secretary, NYSTA, Granville, reviewed the necessary steps needed to accomplish the legislative goals for the profession and proposed action for the future.

The group was welcomed at a buffet dinner by John J. Layden, president of the board of education, Ambrose H. Gilligan, principal of the high school, and Howard Goold, executive secretary of NYSTA, Granville. Officers of the Association

Zone, Granville; County Area Representatives: Miss Helen Gahmer, Warren County, Glens Falls, Mrs. Marjorie Tabor, Saratoga County, and Mrs. Doris Morton, Washington County, Whitehall, and speaker of the evening, Charles Adamson of Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Miss Margaret Reis, teacher of German in Glens Falls Junior High School, introduced Miss Inzeberg, Baden, Germany, who is attending Glens Falls High School this year.

Charles Adamson, instructor of German and Russian at Green Mountain College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., spoke on the topic "Improving Teacher Knowledge of Our Government: The CIA." With a knowledge of Russian and Japanese languages, Mr. Adamson spent some 12 years with the organization which he claims is not a "cloak and dagger" occupation, since no one in the organization really is in danger. Mr. Adamson listed some of the basic functions of CIA: to coordinate and evaluate intelligence from all sources; to collect overt information no one else gets; to ferret out and make innocuous foreign intelligence service.

He explained the challenge and interest for the individual in CIA is great, and added that he believes the best source of information on the organization is Allen Dulles: "Craft of Intelligence." question and answer period.
